PJ DAY FOR THE KIDS

DECEMBER 13, 2019

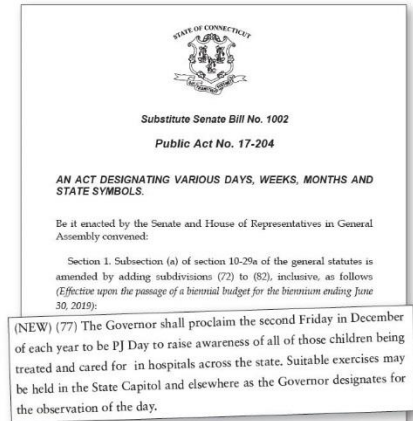

RAISING FUNDS AND SPIRITS

Nick Wesoloskie was in 2nd grade when he decided to do something for kids like his baby sister, Charlotte, who battled cancer and is now cancer-free. He wanted to honor survivors, those lost and those still in the fight of their lives—in their PJs—for days, weeks or longer.

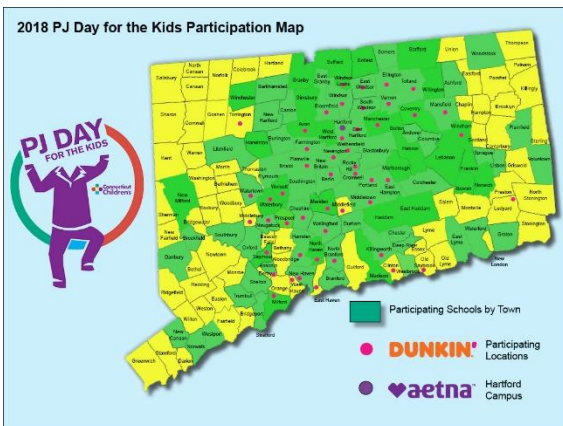

From the humble beginning of one school in Coventry raising $500 to a state-recognized day of awareness raising more than $637,000 in eight years, PJ Day spreads hope to kids and families and inspires participants across the state.

We are stronger together—and with your help, our collective statewide support will continue to make a tremendous impact on the care Connecticut Children's can provide to thousands of patients and families.

HELP TURN CONNECTICUT GREEN

In 2018, more than 300 schools and 264 business locations participated in PJ Day. They raised more than $265,000 for the Center for Cancer & Blood Disorders at Connecticut Children's.

Join us and stand together with every child in every town across this great state. Let's unite to support kids who are battling cancer and blood disorders...and TURN CONNECTICUT GREEN!
