The Connecticut High School Scholar Athlete Awards Program honors annually two outstanding seniors, one male and one female, from each of the CAS/CIAC member schools in the state:

- whose academic and athletic careers have been truly exemplary (A minimum cumulative grade average of 3.5 or the equivalent.),
- whose personal standards and achievements are a model to others,
- who have exhibited outstanding school and community service,
- who possess high levels of integrity, self-discipline and courage, and
- who have participated in interscholastic athletics. (A minimum of two years of participation in a CIAC sponsored sport in Connecticut.)

Connecticut Association of Schools

The Connecticut Association of Schools (formerly the Connecticut Association of Secondary Schools) was created in 1953 through the merger of the Connecticut Association of Secondary School Principals and the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference. CAS is an organization of member schools, united to serve the needs of the students and schools of Connecticut in all areas of inter-school activity.

In 1990, CAS extended membership to elementary schools, a significant milestone since the Association had worked exclusively in the service of secondary schools for over fifty years. CAS is chartered by the State of Connecticut as a non-profit, tax exempt educational organization. It is affiliated with the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the National Association of Elementary School Principals, the National Federation of State High School Associations, and the National Middle School Association. The Association today represents over 1000 of Connecticut's schools.

Bob Valvano Guest Speaker

Bob Valvano is the host of the popular "V Show with Bob Valvano," heard nightly on ESPN Radio affiliates across the country. He is a color analyst for college basketball for ESPN Television and ESPN Regional Television, and is the radio analyst for University of Louisville basketball. He is the author of "The Gifts of Jimmy V. . .a Coach's Legacy," a popular-selling book about his brother, Jim, who coached North Carolina State to the 1983 NCAA Championship. He is actively involved in "The V Foundation," which has raised more than 23 million dollars for cancer research and awarded more than 150 research grants.

Prior to joining ESPN, Valvano served as analyst for University of Louisville basketball telecasts and sideline reporter for television coverage of University of Louisville football games. Valvano coached basketball for 19 seasons before entering broadcasting full time. He successfully rebuilt four different college programs, setting all-time records for wins in a season at three different colleges. At Kutztown University his team was 16-12 during the 1983-84 season. at Catholic University his team was 20-6 (1991-92) and at St. Mary's College his team was 14-12 (1993-94).

Valvano-coached teams set more than 15 college records and six NCAA records. The NCAA records were: three-point field goals made in a season, three-point field goals attempted in a season, three point field goals made in one game (27), three point field goals attempted in one game (63), three point field goals made, two teams combined (32), and most players making a three point field goal in one game (11).

Valvano's last season on the sidelines saw him guide Bellarmine College to its 10th winningest season, and a No. 25 powerrating in Division II.

Valvano lettered in soccer, basketball and golf at Virginia Wesleyan College, named All-Conference 1st team, and soccer MVP in 1978. He was a cum laude graduate of Wesleyan where he majored in Communications. The younger brother of the late Jim Valvano, Bob serves on the Board of Directors of both the V Foundation for Cancer Research, and Kosair Childrens Hospital Foundation. Born January 29, 1957, he is married with two children.

SPONSORS OF THE 2002 CONNECTICUT HIGH SCHOOL SCHOLAR ATHLETE AWARDS BANQUET

McDonald's commitment to education: Celebrating an 19 year partnership with CAS/CIAC

In 2002, McDonald's Restaurants of Connecticut celebrates its 19th year as co-sponsor of the Connecticut Association of Schools/Connecticut Interscholastic Athlete Conference Scholar Athlete and Scholar Leader banquets.

McDonald's restaurants and individual owner/operators have a long-standing commitment to supporting educational initiatives. In addition to providing flexible work hours for student crew members to accommodate homework and extracurricular activities, McDonald's demonstrates its long-standing commitment to education by supporting curriculum programs, scholarships and by awarding educational grants.

Many McDonald's restaurants are owned and operated by local businessmen and women dedicated to their communities. Most host a wide range of school fundraising events, including McEducator nights where teachers, principals and school administrators work behind the counters at a restaurant and a portion of the sales is donated to the school.

Additionally, since 1988 Ronald McDonald House Charities® (RMHC) of Connecticut and Western Massachusetts has provided more than $2.5 million to over 150 nonprofit organizations including several schools and educational organizations benefiting children and their families in Connecticut and western Massachusetts. McDonald's and RMHC also sponsor the RMHC/HACER Scholarship Program which awards scholarships to college-bound high school seniors of Hispanic descent.

McDonald's Restaurants of Connecticut proudly received the Connecticut Association of Schools "Distinguished Friend of Education Award," the highest honor presented to a non-educational organization.

Sponsorship of the CAS/CIAC banquets represents one of the many ways local McDonald's benefits the communities where they do business. We salute this year's outstanding students and CAS and CIAC for their efforts in honoring such deserving young people each year.

Coca-Cola's commitment to education: Celebrating its partnership with CAS/CIAC

2002 marks the fifth consecutive year of Coca-Cola's co-sponsorship of the Connecticut Association of Schools/Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference's "Scholar Athlete" and "Scholar-Leader" banquets. Coca-Cola congratulates this year's award recipients, and is proud to participate in events and activities that recognize the outstanding accomplishments of Connecticut's students.

Coca-Cola, the most powerful consumer brand and world's pre-eminent soft drink company, remains steadfast in its support of educational initiatives on all levels. In addition to refreshing the residents of Connecticut, Coca-Cola Bottlers across the state have provided programs and funding that touch the individual student, the schools, and the districts where they do business. Coca-Cola is a global company with a local commitment to enhance the communities where its employees and their families live and work.

To further support the higher education of deserving high school seniors in the United States, Coca-Cola formed the Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation back in 1986. This non-profit foundation awards over $1.5 million each year to more than 150 students representing a diverse cross-section of the young people selected from over 130,000 applicants. The Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation is one of the nation's largest business-supported, merit based scholarship programs of its kind. Connecticut high school students have received nearly $70,000 in scholarship money from the foundation to study at any accredited college university.

Additionally, the Coca-Cola Foundation, the philanthropic arm of the Coca-Cola Company, was formed in 1989 and has focused on helping others through education. The Foundation supports educational programs that foster global understanding, enrich lives through art, encourage children to stay in school, train those who lack sufficient opportunity and link higher education to younger students. Between 1990 and 2001, the Coca-Cola Foundation will contribute over $100 million to educational initiatives, with Connecticut institutions receiving more than $400,000 for programs that will enhance and improve the opportunities of Connecticut's students.

The Coca-Cola Bottling Company of New England is proud to support the students, the administrators, the schools, and statewide organizations such as CAS/CIAC. Congratulations to all award recipients and best wishes for continued success.
