Keynote Speaker Adam Greenberg

If there's ever a person who epitomizes perseverance, it's Adam Greenberg, famous for the one pitch that changed his life forever.

Adam is the son of Wendy and Mark Greenberg. He attended Guilford High School in Guilford, Connecticut and was a four-year letterman on Guilford's baseball, basketball, and soccer teams.

Greenberg was the baseball team captain as a junior and senior, four-time All-conference and All-area, and was the first player in Connecticut history to be named to four all-state teams, and helped lead Guilford to the state soccer title in 1996.

Adam played college baseball for the North Carolina Tar Heels in the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC). In 2002, he was named a Jewish Sports Review College Baseball First Team All-American.

He was selected by the Chicago Cubs in the ninth round of the 2002 Major League Baseball Draft. He played minor league baseball in the Cub's system and on July 7, 2005, Greenberg was called up to the Cubs' major league team. Pinch hitting in the ninth inning against the Florida Marlins, in a game on July 9, Greenberg was hit directly in the back of his head by a 92 mph fastball on the very first pitch from Valerio de los Santos. He suffered a mild concussion as a result of the beaning, and was immediately removed from the game.

Adam was released by the Chicago Cubs organization on June 2, 2006. He subsequently played in the Dodgers, Royals, Angels and Reds farm systems.

In 2012, a Chicago Cubs fan started an online petition to get Greenberg another Major League plate appearance.

The campaign succeeded when the Miami Marlins offered Greenberg a one-day contract to play in their October 2, 2012, home game against the New York Mets.

Adam led off the bottom of the sixth inning as a pinch hitter. He was struck out by Mets knuckleballer and eventual Cy Young Award winner R.A. Dickey on three pitches and was removed from the lineup at the end of the inning. Greenberg said after the game, "It was magical. The energy that was in the stadium was something that I have never experienced in my life, and I don't know if I'll ever experience that again."

Adam played for the Israeli national baseball team during the 2013 World Baseball Classic qualifier. He officially announced his retirement from baseball in February 2014.

In 2014, he was inducted into the National Jewish Sports Hall of Fame.

In 2010, he founded the health and wellness company Lurong Living, where he enjoys empowering others to gain control of their health through a line of dietary supplements and nationwide health challenges. As a proven dynamic leader, he also enjoys traveling the country sharing his story and keys to perseverance.

CONNECTICUT
ASSOCIATION OF SCHOOLS

Established in 1953, CAS is a non-profit organization working with Connecticut's school leaders to improve elementary and secondary education in Connecticut. CAS' core mission – to promote excellence in the education of all students – is achieved through advocacy, professional development, recognition and student activities programs. CAS represents over 900 of the state's public and parochial schools and is affiliated with the National Association of Secondary School Principals, the Association for Middle Level Education, and the National Association of Elementary School Principals.

The Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference (CIAC) is one of the six boards of control that comprise the Connecticut Association of Schools (CAS). The CIAC is a private, non-profit corporation founded in 1921 by a group of high school principals and a consultant from the Connecticut State Department of Education determined to establish a common code of rules of eligibility and control which would end abuses and exploitation of student-athletes; govern interscholastic sports objectively; ensure equitable competition among athletes and their schools; and maintain interscholastic athletics in proper perspective with relation to the entire educational program of the school. The CIAC is affiliated with the National Federation of State High School Associations.

CIAC Mission Statement

The CIAC believes that interscholastic athletic programs and competition are an integral part of a student's academic, social, emotional and physical development. The CIAC promotes the academic mission of schools and honorable competition. As such, the CIAC serves as the regulatory agency for high school interscholastic athletic programs and exists to ensure quality experiences that reflect high ethical standards and expectations for fairness, equity and sportsmanship for all student-athletes and coaches. The CIAC provides leadership and support for member schools through the voluntary services of dedicated school administrators, athletic directors, coaches and consultants.
