In this session, participants will actively engage with a panel of experienced school and district leaders to discuss strategies for facilitating difficult conversations with various stakeholders, including families, students, and staff.

The goals of this discussion panel include preparing for the meeting, establishing psychological safety, tips for effective feedback and follow-up, active listening and questioning techniques, and ways to consider the context.

There are a variety of topics that lead to challenging conversations for today's school leaders, and we hope to empower you with strategies for success!
