The National Honor Society is built on the tradition of recognizing excellence. We know that students who become members in this prestigious organization work hard to demonstrate outstanding scholarship, leadership, service and character. Membership is a beginning rather than a culminating event. Training, personal development and leadership challenged to be servant first are imperative to move individuals to higher levels of understanding, purpose and contributions to society.

SCHEDULE

WORKSHOP FACILITATOR KEITH NORD MOTIVATES STUDENT LEADERS

Having been in leadership positions throughout his life in athletics and for service organizations, Keith Nord has lived the experiences he talks about. A former NFL player for seven years with the Minnesota Vikings, Keith was one of the team's captains for several years.

During his Believe in You workshop, Keith takes participants through a variety of leadership exercises based on real life situations. Students leave better able to fulfill the expectations others have for them as leaders as well as those they have set for themselves.

Servant Leadership, Integrity, Passion are fundamental components of National Honor Society. This workshop will help students to explore these aspects of their own leadership and to gain understanding of how to put them into practice in effective ways in their schools and communities.
