

Joseph,

Summer is winding down quickly. We hope you got out to play golf, spent time with family & friends and are re-energized for the next season.

High School Golf Coach Education

As many of you head back to school soon - now is the perfect time to do a little Professional Development. Any high school golf coach can take advantage of the American Development Model \(ADM\) training. ADM is an athlete-centered, coach-enhanced, administrator-supported framework that aims to help all your golfers realize their athletic potential. The training is free for High School Coaches and is guided by PGA Professionals.

ADM Age-Specific Activity Plans

As the leader in high school golf, we know one of the toughest things a Coach is faced with each season is helping their players improve and reach their fullest potential. We have created dozens of age-appropriate practice plans for you to share with your players.

Whether your players are Playing to Improve or they are Playing to Compete - each of these extensive activity plans are proven to work and available for you to use next season with your team. Check them out today!

Youth on Course

Is golf course access a pain point for your players? Youth on Course provides high school golfers access to over 2,000 golf courses for $5 or less a round. Additionally, YOC provides opportunities to succeed through their Careers on Course, leadership and scholarship programs. They have been an affordable solution for youth golfers for many years - please share this with your players and have them sign-up today.

Have a cool story from your team or players this season? We want to celebrate your successes from your high school golf team. Please fill out this form to share with our media team at the PGA of America.

Keep it in the short grass!

-Mike
